Annual Report
2017

With financial

Foreword

Elwin Groenevelt
EMN President

Our network is growing! And it's not only good news for the microfinance sector, but also for individuals and businesses throughout Europe. In particular for the financially underserved people who can find a way out of social and economic exclusion by setting up businesses or other activities with the aid of microfinance services. In 2017, EMN welcomed 27 new members which brings our total to 108. We are a relevant network, and this should be taken into consideration by our stakeholders such as the European Commission, other European institutions, and partner organisations.

Throughout 2017, EMN worked hard to better represent the interests of our members and the microfinance industry in Europe as a whole.

ADVOCACY

This year EMN has increased its activities in advocacy for the interests of the sector. We have reinforced our dialogue with the EU institutions on issues related to the regulatory framework for microfinance and the implementation of the current programmes for the development of the sector. Also, EMN has worked in guaranteeing the preservation of the EU post-2020 budget for microfinance and quantifying the amounts of the different instruments and their implementation. The work done on these topics should start producing specific policy results at the crucial moment in 2018 when the new EU instruments in support of the sector will be designed and agreed upon. Numerous meetings have taken place and many reports have been produced this year to support our renewed advocacy activities that will be further enhanced over the coming years.

SERVICES TO MEMBERS

EMN is looking to further increase its services to the members with different capacity building proposals. In addition to the peer-to-peer visits, workshops, Technical Assistance training programmes, Annual Conference, etc. EMN has developed different mechanisms to help our members improve their opportunities for fundraising and we would like to be more proactive to facilitate the transition towards a digitalised world within the European microfinance sector. The EMN Secretariat will maintain its open-door policy to gather feedback from all of you about how these services can best be provided and improved upon.

Year after year, the members of EMN have shown their commitment to the activities carried out for the Network. In fact, most of our members have been directly or indirectly involved in the development of our activities. This high degree of membership participation in the network's activities is one of the main characteristics of EMN. We hope to see this continue and develop.

EMN STRATEGIC PLAN

A collaborative scheme was set-up in 2017 among members to develop the EMN 2017-20 Action Plan that was approved at our last General Assembly in June 2017 in Venice. We want to repeat this collaborative model to develop the future EMN Strategic Plan that will cover the years from 2020 onwards. This will be a key exercise for the future development of the organisation and the entire sector in Europe, and we are sure it will be as successful as the 2017 experience.

The Board of Directors worked as a very constructive and focused team last year. We had 4 board meetings in 2017 with a full agenda of topics, which were handled efficiently. I would like to thank my colleagues on the EMN Board of Directors for their time and effort. I especially thank my predecessor, Patrick Sapy, whose big shoes I will try to fill. Many thanks also to all our members and partners, as well as the EMN Secretariat for this wonderful year. I do hope you enjoy reading this summary of activities. If you would like to find out more about any aspect of this report, please get in touch with the EMN team.

Our members say

I joined the EMN research committee in 2005, contributing to its establishment. I have always found room for discussion and cooperation, a fertile ground to make new ideas grow. I really believe that EMN is a crucial player for microfinance worldwide: it is essential for advocacy and consultancy, but also for research about microfinance in developed countries. The latter thanks to the information stemming from the EMN survey, Microfinance in Europe has many peculiarities that would be worth investigating and EMN is there to remind all international players in the field about these peculiarities.

Our members say

The European Microfinance Day was a great opportunity for Microlux to showcase its first clients and to raise awareness of microfinance in Luxembourg among the public. Microlux organised a local micro-entrepreneurship market where 8 of our microentrepreneurs presented their products and services. Visitors had lunch provided by a Syrian and Italian restaurant that we financed and could meet and chat with other local entrepreneurs. The event was a true success! Nearly a hundred participants came to discover the faces of microfinance in Luxembourg. Thank you to the European Microfinance Network for organising this day all over Europe!

Our members say

EMN membership has provided us with access to relevant insights into the sector that help us better understand, adapt and make informed decisions about our activities. We believe that joining efforts will increase access to microfinance for vulnerable groups and micro-enterprises who want to set up or develop their business in the CEE region.

EMN working groups actively reach out to businesses and provide members with tangible benefits. The ability to network at a variety of events has helped us increase our impact within the market. Through these connections Erste Group Bank's social banking approach has been introduced to a wider range of stakeholders. It is only by collaborating both within and between sectors that we will be able to bring about the social change that we so desperately need.
